The Day of the Dead is celebrated in Mexico and other parts of Latin America. It is known there as Día de los Muertos. People who are from Mexico celebrate the festival. Also some Spanish speaking countries celebrate as well. The festival is celebrated to remember loved ones who have died. It also helps people accept and deal with the idea of death. It takes place over two days, on November 1 and 2. For both days people decorate the graves of their relatives with flowers and the favorite foods of the relatives. Many families build altars, called ofrendas, in their homes to honor their dead relatives.
